Fearrey says county unity exists despite problems

While admitting there are some isolated areas of conflict between various regions and communities in the Highlands Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey told the annual meeting of the Minden Red Cross Society that there is unity in the county. The reeve and twice former warden of the county, addressed the meeting Wednesday evening at the Fireside Restaurant.

Fearrey told the gathering that opposition does flare up, "every once in a while," but that there was no "counter alliance" to the concept of unity within the county. He admitted that on occasions certain special provisions have to be made for municipalities on the fringe of the county, because of their geographic location.

The former warden said the most divisive issue he has encountered in his years as a county councillor, was the debate last year surrounding the elevation of the county to full county status. "It seems that some people just don't want to hear," Fearrey commented. "When their arguments fail, they resort to rumour to cast doubt on the opinions of others." He pointed out, as an example, that he was accused of favouring the move to full county status so the county seat could be relocated in Haliburton Village or as the first step toward regional government.

Fearrey noted that the county council is currently considering the re-allocation of voting powers of municipalities at the county level. He defended the suggestion by asking the audience if they would be willing to share in a joint venture where they would be required to provide more than 50% of the operating funds, but did not have a majority voice in decisions being taken. "The three townships, (Dysart, Anson, Hindon and Minden, and Stanhope) which contribute over 60% of the finances for the county want 50% of the voting power," the reeve stated.

Minden vs. Haliburton

Fearrey went on to outline, what he described as a diagnosis of the 'Minden - Haliburton Syndrome'.

He said the rivalry between the two communities seems to have started many years ago. He said the competition was accentuated when certain government agencies were attracted to Minden, resulting in bad feelings in Haliburton. He said the same feelings were also created when the high school was located in Haliburton Village.

Fearrey said these "bad feelings" between the community are fed and sustained by rumours. "Some politicians use blame and insinuation to deflect attention away from their own poor performances."

Noting that the communities have much in common, the Dysart reeve cited a number of examples of where the two areas have common and harmonious contact. "In commerce, for example," Fearrey noted, "there isn't a day goes by that I don't see someone from Minden shopping in Haliburton. Students from the two communities meet each day at the high school. Organizations like the Red Cross, senior citizens groups, churches and county council are all examples of how the two communities can work together."

"It isn't expedient for one area of the county to attempt to improve itself by putting another area down," Fearrey commented. "We must all work together for the betterment of the entire county. Healthy competition must replace jealousy."

Fearrey was thanked for his comments by Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Lyle McKnight. He said he concurred with what his counterpart from Dysart said, "99.9%. We need county unity. I believe in the county," McKnight stated. But, he also pointed out that he had been elected to represent his own municipality first.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Minden Red Cross Society.

Red Cross meeting well attended

A large crowd was on hand Wednesday evening (March 30) for the annual meeting of the Minden Red Cross Society. The thirty-fourth annual gathering of the organization was held at the Fireside Restaurant in Minden.

Reports from the various committee chairpersons were presented and accepted by the meeting. It was noted that the Minden Red Cross Hospital has been the recipient of a number of large donations during the past year. Among the gifts received by the hospital was a new x-ray machine donated, in large part, by the Minden Rotary Club, a blood pressure monitor donated by the Legion in Haliburton and a cardiac monitor, donated by the Legion in Kinmount.

Nurse/Administrator Jean Anderson reported to the meeting that admissions at the hospital were down during the past year compared with a year earlier. In 1982 there were 418 admissions with 476 recorded in 1981. The number of outpatients treated in 1982 was similar to the year previous with 4167 being recorded in 1982 and 4178 the year before. 1866 x-rays were taken in 1982 compared with 1829 in 1981.

Man charged in shooting

An 18 year old Toronto man has been charged with first degree murder in the shooting death of Charles Edward Palmer at his parents' Bob Lake cottage. The slaying took place between March 24 and 26.

The accused is Kevin Joseph Humphrey. He surrendered to police at the Toronto International Airport, Friday April 1. Police refuse to say if the man had arrived at the airport by airplane.

The arrest ends a search for the man which extended to all corners of Haliburton County and eventually to Florida.

Police began a massive manhunt in the Haliburton County area immediately after the body of the 24 year old victim was discovered Saturday evening (March 26.) by his mother. Using a helicopter and police officers on the ground, the authorities combed the area around Bob Lake looking for the victim's car, which was missing.

Witnesses in the Minden area had reported seeing the victim accompanied by another man. Police were searching for Palmer's companion.

The authorities had prepared a composite drawing of the man they were looking for and were prepared to release it to the media last Tuesday. The police decided Tuesday not to release the drawing and called a press conference for Wednesday (March 30).

At that gathering Inspector Jack Burke told reporters that on the previous day a man had been apprehended in Florida. The individual, Gary St. Laurent, 17, of no fixed address, had been arrested as a credit card issued to Palmer and presumed stolen from the scene of the murder, was being used to pay for motel accommodation.

A second individual was with St. Laurent but he managed to escape police custody. St. Laurent was later released by Florida authorities.

The police had learned from U.S. border authorities

Inspector Jack Burk and Minden Constable Gary Chapman faced the media Wednesday morning to answer questions about the recent shooting in the area. The information the OPP officers provided was the first in a string of announcements which led ultimately to the announcement during the weekend that 18 year old Toronto resident Kevin Joseph Humphrey had been charged in the shooting.

School grants announced

Grants to Ontario school boards will increase by 5.73 per cent this year to a total of $2 billion, 897 million, Education Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson announced last week.

The funding incorporated a 5 per cent increase over the 1982 allocation of $2 billion, 740 million plus an additional $18 million for special education previously announced for 1983 and $2 million to assist school boards to install stop-arm devices on school buses.

In a memorandum to school board officials announcing the 1983 funding Dr. Stephenson said "with an allocation of $2,897 million, the Government has attempted to provide a fair level of provincial support to school boards, given the extremely scarce financial resources available and the paramount need to maintain an equitable distribution of these resources to all government programs."

The amount eligible for grant per elementary pupil for 1983 is increased by 10.09 per cent to $2,171, compared to $1,972 last year. The amount eligible for grant per secondary pupil is increased by 9.57 per cent to $2,978 for 1983. Last year it was $2,718.

The per pupil grant for special education programs and services for 1983 is $147 per elementary pupil, $106 per secondary pupil and $3,740 for each trainable retarded pupil. Last year they were $125 for elementary, $90 for secondary and $3,430 for trainable retarded.

Dr. Stephenson said that grants for French as a minority language and French as a second language programs will increase by about nine per cent. New this year will be a start-up grant to assist boards to establish or expand immersion or extended French as a second language programs in English language secondary schools. Funding of the Heritage Languages program will also be increased. Recognition for grant purposes for Grade 9 and 10 pupils in Roman Catholic Separate schools will be increased from 1.19 to 1.21.

Dr. Stephenson said that the Ministry will continue to encourage school boards to restrain expenditures this year, and will institute a special grant to those boards that do. If a school holds its per pupil expenditures this year and will institute a special grant to those boards that do. If a school board holds its per pupil operating expenditure to nine per cent or less over 1982, it will be eligible for the special grant. The special grant will enable a board to hold its mill rate increase to a corresponding level of nine per cent or less. For example, if a board's 1983 expenditure is held to an increase of eight per cent, the Ministry grant would hold the local mill rate increase to a maximum of eight per cent.

Dr. Stephenson cautioned the boards that in terms of provincial transfer payments and the general level of revenues available for education purposes the restraint program will be continued again next year.

With their trusty hats firmly in place, Gwen Cox, Cheryl Murdoch and Bev Wood, sweep Marion Anderson's rock during the Ladies bonspiel. The team placed second in the contest.

Anderson thanked the Red Cross Society for their continued strong interest in the hospital. She noted that renovations carried out at the hospital are now completed and plans are being made for an open house later this year to give the public an opportunity to see the changes.

Active member of the organization Jim Burton, announced that he would be stepping down as representative on the regional Red Cross Society council. He noted that he had served for a three year term, a time he described as being "very rewarding". He said that during his term on the board, the three Red Cross hospitals in the region were transferred to local control.

In that regard the chairman of the local society, Dave McKinlay, read a letter from the co-ordinator at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, thanking the group for their interest in the facility and encouraging their participation in the future. The Minden hospital will come under the administration of the Peterborough hospital later this year as Red Cross withdraws from that capacity.

The winners of the door prizes included: Mary Maidens, who received a door stop doll, and David Hutton of Lindsay who was presented with the centrepiece donated by Dr. Jeff and Marion Lodenquai.

Police investigation

that Palmer's car had crossed the Niagara Falls Rainbow Bridge in the early hours of March 25.

The missing vehicle was located in Alabama.

Officers from the OPP were dispatched to Florida to interview the suspect and to examine the vehicle for evidence.

During the press conference last Wednesday, the police pointed out that the composite drawing of the suspect they were searching for was not released. It was indicated that if witnesses saw the drawing it could influence their testimony when being asked later to identify an accused from a photograph or in a line-up.

The police also noted that the press conference was held to allay fears of local residents concerning the whereabouts of the person the police believe was responsible for the shooting. Police said that concern had been raised that the individual might still be in the Minden area and they wanted to let the local populace know that the focus of their investigation had shifted away from the community.

Inspector Jack Burke praised the local community for its co-operation in assisting the police during their search of the area.

The question of motive for the shooting was also raised at the press conference, with one reporter suggesting the incident might have been prompted by a homosexual love affair. Police declined to comment on the suggestion other than to say that they had heard through "Yonge Street street talk" that one of the individuals in Florida could be a homosexual. The authorities refused to say whether they were referring to the man who was already in custody or the person who, at the time, they were still seeking.

Humphrey appeared in court in Lindsay Tuesday. He was ordered held in custody for a week when he will reappear in court April 11.

Turning point in metal

Metal sculptor Jim Affleck's "Turning Point" is just that for the artist: a turning point.

"This show is about, I think, a turning point in my work," explained Affleck. "It's just ironic that 'Turning Point' works as a title" he said displaying the piece. He said too, that the April date for the show placed it within the change and he was obviously happy to share the transition saying "this is the direction of the new work, of which I am very proud."

Affleck, a resident of Pakenham, a village north of Ottawa in the Ottawa Valley, is holding his first show outside the valley. Haliburton's Rails' End Gallery has devoted its larger room to the sculptures. The show opened April 2 and continues until April 23.

The artist opened his remarks with a thought on the continuity of art. As he is presently involved in a new direction he is more aware of each work as being "part of a continuing thing."

"Steel itself I find to be a very beautiful material," he said. All his work is a rust colour, painted with a glossy primer, he explained. "I'm not a very sophisticated colour person," he smiled, but added he was glad to find the glossy primer.

"In my opinion this work is very Canadian work, I'm not sure why except this material is a lot like rock." He added it is "quiet work."

Affleck related part of his art career. After years of lack of confidence, he finally pushed himself to concentrate on his art. He "went through the processes" of learning to weld and other skills which aid him. He said he didn't want to be like one Canadian artist who hired him to do the technical work on a piece and decided at the time he must do everything himself.

After some time he went through a "grim year." "I prayed, I was lying fallow and feared I was finished," he said.

The result was "Waiting Game" and the turning point.

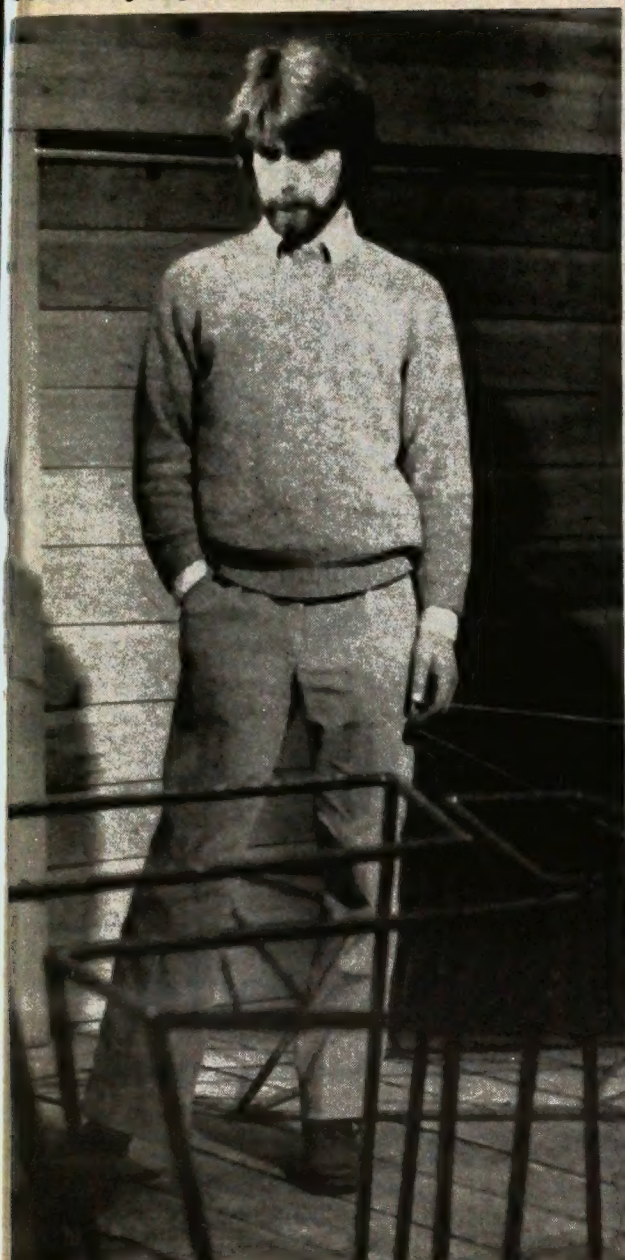

The sculptor was asked where an "average" person would "use" his work. "I'm an average person," he replied, "I have it in my yard."

"They seem to be happy lines following each other" as opposed to the "more angular pieces" one woman said.

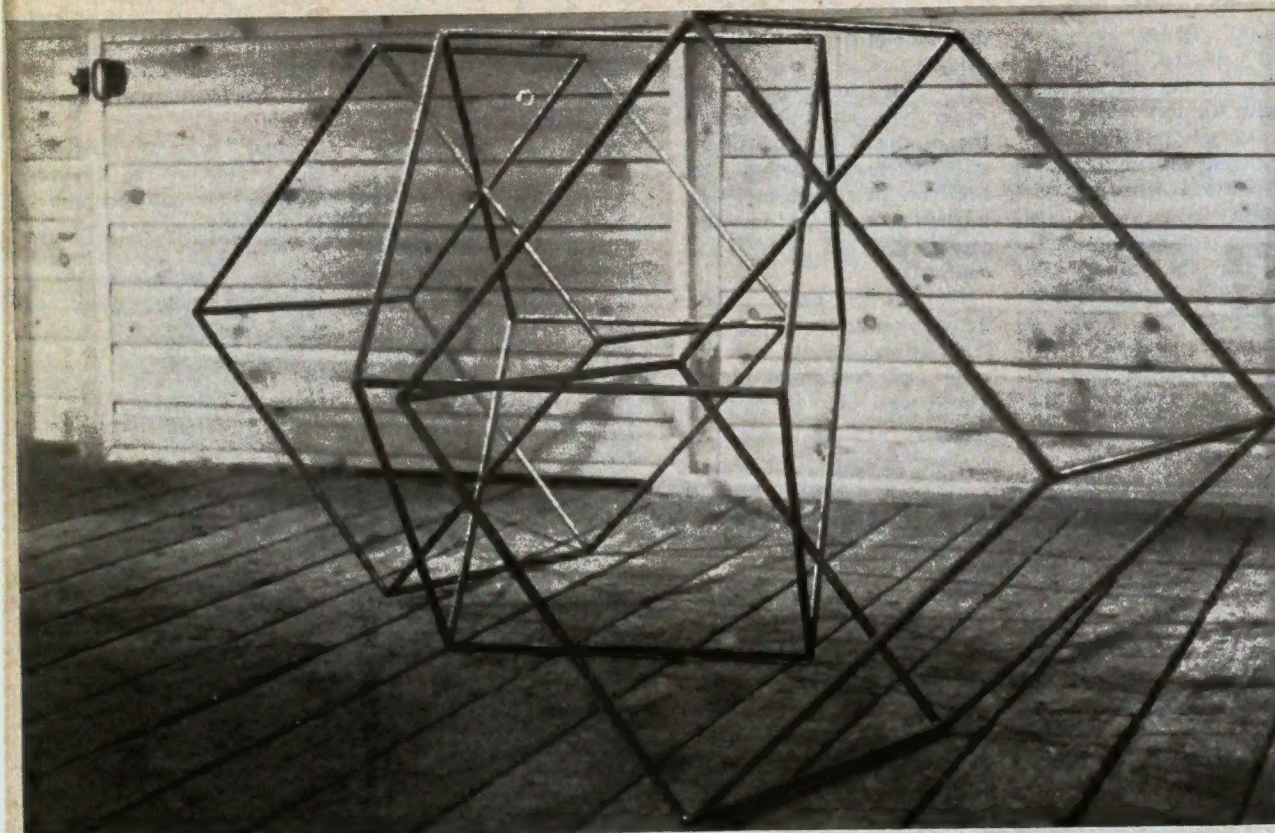

"Yes, I can hardly wait to continue the latest phase" smiled the artist.

Affleck's favourite material is silo bar, metal from old style silos. He finds the metal "charming" because of its "pittedness" and its slight inherent bends.

Only one piece called "X" was in a different material, structured steel.

A worthy contribution

Last Wednesday the Minden Red Cross Society held its third annual meeting. The gathering marked an important milestone in the organization's existence.

This year will mark the cut in the tie between the Red Cross and Minden's hospital. While administration of the facility was carried out from the Toronto office of the Red Cross, the local society provided important support services in manpower and morale for the health facility.

The local society has indicated it will continue to provide support for the hospital. Their backing has been welcomed by the board of management of St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough, under whom the administration of the hospital will soon fall.

The local Red Cross Society is to be congratulated for its support of our hospital over the years. Their continued interest in the hospital will ensure the facility will continue to meet the needs of the community.

Up in the dumps

Anson, Hindon and Minden residents were delighted, no doubt, to learn recently that they have the best garbage dump, ahem, landfill site, in the county. In fact, our Scotch Line site is being touted by authorities from the Ministry of Environment and a respected consulting firm, as being a dump managed in a manner other municipalities in the areas should emulate.

While this revelation may not mean a great deal to most residents, it does reflect on the efforts of past councils to bring the dump's management in line with ministry standards. To their credit, the word of praise offered by the consultants, should be directed.

Now the municipality has one more feature to add to its promotional literature...excellent recreational facilities, industrial sites, water and sewer services AND the best dump for miles around.

Regarding Haliburton County's million - dollar budget problems, let me suggest a good place to trim.

The proposed new Ingoldsby Bridge could cost 40 per cent more at today's prices than the "$250,000 to $300,000" figure being so casually quoted. The county had no written current cost estimate for this major cost item as of mid-February. With the 40 per cent markup the project could cost $420,000.

But an engineering study done for the county by Totten, Sims, Hubicki in 1980 says the existing bridge is structurally sound and safe. There is no need and no urgency to replace it the report says. Its carrying capacity can be doubled to 32 tons by the expenditure of $100,000. This would extend the safe life of the bridge ten years.

The new proposed bridge will be about 80 feet long but it will be 46 feet wide! It will carry two lanes of traffic plus 12 feet of "parking space" on each side of the length of the bridge.

I repeat two facts. At high water boat clearance under the proposed bridge will be only four feet, 10 inches. The east bridge abutment will intrude up to 16 feet into the present 24-foot wide boat channel.

Eighty per cent of all development costs in Haliburton County go on farm and residential taxes. Those least able to support them.

This is only a passenger vehicle bridge with declining traffic flow. The county engineer conceded this at the recent hearing. Let's repair the bridge and spend $100,000 rather than the $420,000 possible.

Give Haliburton taxpayers a breather if you can't give them a break, Mr. County Councillor.

J.A. Curtin,
Toronto.

I am writing this letter as a tribute to the late Mr. Fred Watson who was a fine gentleman. He died suddenly last month. Mr. and Mrs. Watson lived near Fenelon Falls and once a month they would drive to Minden and pick up Mr. and Mrs. Al. Smith and go up to Hyland Crest. While Mrs. Smith visited with the residents, the others would entertain on the piano, violin and guitar.

The last time they played was at a St. Patrick's party when they played some lively tunes. We were lucky enough to be invited and I noticed the happy expression on his face and his foot tapping to the music.

He will be greatly missed by the people at the Crest. I wonder how many people will spend their last days making others happy.

Youth program still lacking

-by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

I thought it would be appropriate this week to continue the discussion on youth employment, for I know of the need in our own Victoria - Haliburton area.

Manpower training and apprenticeship

While well over half a million Ontarians are unable to find work, certain skilled labour positions go unfilled or must be filled by imported labour ... the Ontario Manpower Commission estimates that by 1986 there may be a shortage of as many as 45,000 skilled workers in Ontario ... it is clear that manpower training and apprenticeship programs have not received the support they deserve. Such programs should be increased to take advantage of the opportunities to retrain idle workers and unemployed graduates, and training periods should be kept realistic.

While the government must take the initiative, the total financing for training programs need not and should not come entirely from the taxpayers. Co-operative, shared-cost programs with private industry and labour should be the major directions pursued.

Co-operative students

Our recent Task Force noted widespread agreement on the value of co-operative education programs, at both the secondary and post-secondary levels. Programs which alternate academic study with practical work experience provide young people with expanded learning and earning opportunities. They also allow employers to train the future work force in the skills which will be in demand when the students graduate.

Hospitality training centre preview

The county's newest training centre, one that is gaining international attention, held an open house Wednesday evening March 30. The Haliburton Highlands Hospitality Training Centre, located above the Red and White store in Haliburton, was opened for a select group of invited guests. Dennis Casey, the transition administrator of the centre, was the host for the evening.

About 80 people from throughout the county were invited to tour the centre. The invitation was even extended to Employment and Immigration Minister Lloyd Axworthy. Casey explained, "Since he extended the 'big buck' we thought he should be invited." His federal department provided a large portion of the funding for the centre. Axworthy was unable to attend. An invitation was also extended to members of the Haliburton County Council. They were also absent.

The centre has been established as a training operation for the hospitality industry. It will provide instruction for individuals involved in such positions as kitchen helper, bartender, housekeeper, waiter and waitress.

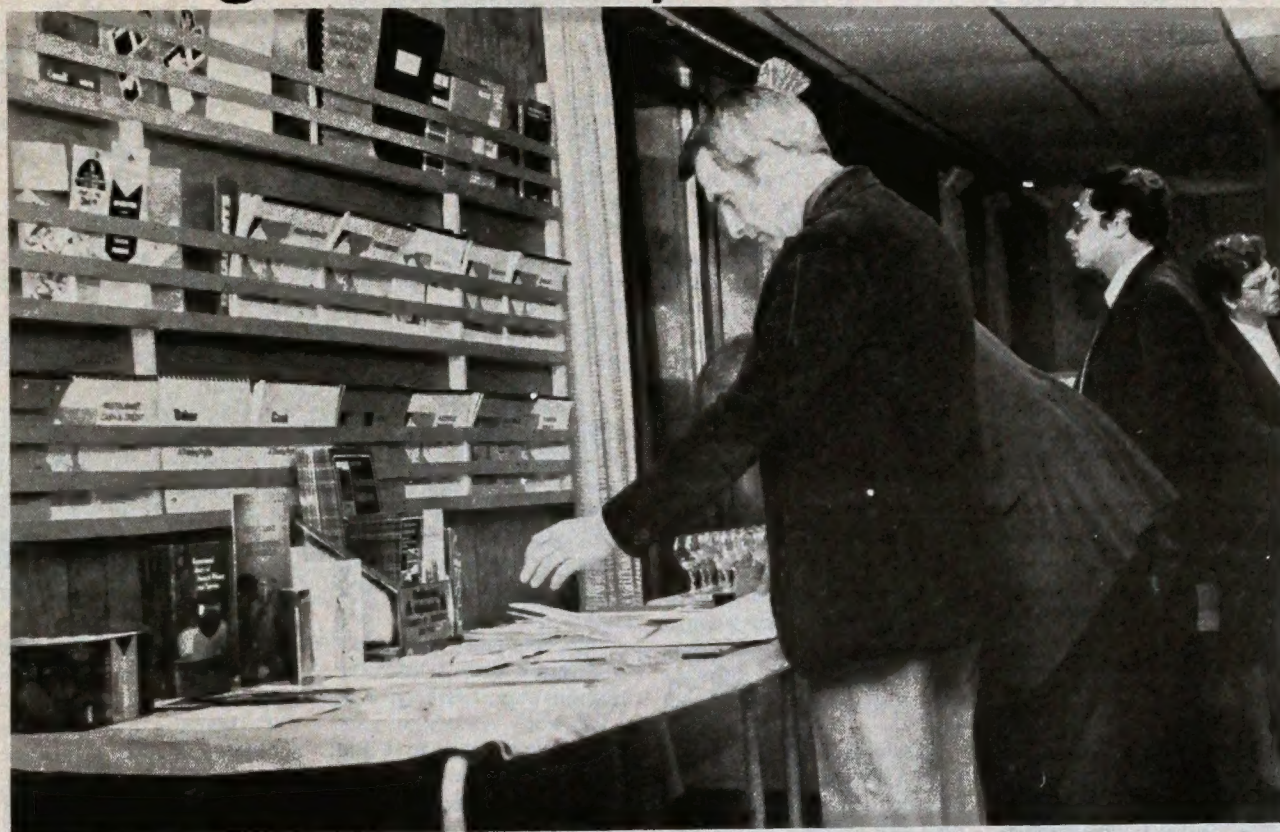

When the centre was first being considered it was pointed out that employees in these positions often have the closest contact with the individuals staying at a resort, restaurant or vacation complex. At the same time, however, it is often these employees who receive the least amount of training, both in how to carry out their jobs efficiently and in dealing with the clients. It is hoped the new training centre will help fill that void.

Applicants for the ten training positions have already been received. Under the mandate through which the funding for the program was provided, many of the participants will be those who have exhausted their UIC benefits. So far, some 40 individuals have indicated an interest in the course.

The training centre is actually a suite of rooms which is in the process of being converted into a mock resort operation. The rooms will include a bedroom, dining area, kitchen and bar. Using the mock set-up, the students will have an opportunity to practice first hand, the lessons which they receive in class. This could involve such items as how to make a bed, the use of cleaning chemicals, dusting and other skills, which are part of a job.

The bar, kitchen and dining area will be used for related skills training. "The kitchen is a bit on the small side," Casey admits, "but we just didn't have the funds for a larger area." The administrator pointed out that much of the training will be done outside of the centre with students travelling to area resorts where they will be able to experience "the real thing". There are 25 resorts and 10

The Haliburton Highlands Hospitality Training Centre boasts a comprehensive collection of literature on the tourism industry. The March 30 open house attracted a large number of residents. The event was highlighted by the assertion that international eyes are monitoring the Centre's progress.

restaurants which have agreed to assist with this portion on the program.

In return for their participation in the program, the resort owners and managers will be able to take part in a management skills program. This crash, three-day course is being designed to teach them how to take advantage of the trained individuals the centre will be producing. This special training program will involve experts in the field of human relations and resort management. It will be held later this month.

One of the most important aspects of the training at the centre will be the life-skills which the employees will learn. Since they are on the front line of contact with the visitors to a resort, this aspect of the program is considered as important as the practical information they receive.

To assist in this regard, a special section of the training centre has been set aside as a mini-television studio with camera and video recorder. The equipment will be used to tape mock situations in which the employees may find themselves when on the job. The results will be played back with the instructor and other members of the class providing a critical analysis of what they see. It is hoped this analysis will help the students to improve and become more confident in their work and life skills.

The course is expected to run for 21 weeks although provisions have been made to allow those students who are ready for work to leave by week 14. The period includes three weeks of on-the-job training.

The training centre is expected to begin with its first class May 1.

Centre receives international recognition and attention

The Haliburton Highlands Hospitality Training Centre has become more than an experiment in the county and Ontario, it has drawn the attention of the World Tourist Organization (WTO), an arm of the United Nations. The March 30 open house of the centre was attended by resort and restaurant owners and other members of the community.

George Kibedi, executive director of the Ontario Hostelry Institute, revealed that at a recent meeting in Madrid, members indicated their interest in the county project. It is "well known internationally," probably better "than in government offices in Toronto," he joked.

Those attending the open house were surprised and understandably pleased by Kibedi's statements.

Later, Kibedi said the WTO considers the training program, with much of its emphasis on life skills, to be "unique." After 25 years working in five continents in related areas, Kibedi is convinced the Ontario approach is best. He said it takes into account the "heart and brain."

The executive also said some of the results of the Local Employment Assistance (LEAP) may be discussed at an international meeting in New Delhi, India. Concerned organizations "have great expectation," he said. It is a "big challenge for you," he concluded.

Barb Bolin, chairperson for the centre, outlined the steps the committee has taken since the centre's inception in early 1982.

The first stage consisted of the formation of the committee, developed at the suggestion of the Haliburton County Industrial Training Committee (CITC) and the study of the feasibility of such a training program. The CITC completed a needs survey in conjunction with the Ministry of Colleges and Universities, followed by the investigation of available training funds. After LEAP and the new committee agreed to contract for a feasibility study with DAG Associates

Incorporated recommending the preliminaries continue.

The next stage was to develop the program itself. Susan Watkinson was hired for the task. The program was developed to produce individuals "to be accepted as employees, and competitive employees," said Bolin. It is also to give participants a "general overview of the hospitality industry."

In February 1983 LEAP agreed to fund the program which includes a training allowance for the students, an "incentive" to encourage those in training.

Bolin closed her remarks saying they "hope to be in 'motion' by the first of May" subject to the acquisition of a life skills administrator. Bolin extended an invitation to those present to "drop in" and the hope that they would hire the course's graduates.

Gary DeDauw, LEAP's representative on the committee, commended their efforts and noted the program was totally developed by local residents. He said committee members were not paid but met "sometimes more than weekly."

"I certainly commend them for what they've done," he said.

Ken Langdon vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, offered the new program "good wishes from the Chamber of Commerce."

He pointed out Chamber manager Bob Stinson sat on the committee as a representative for the Chamber of Commerce.

"All of us have been upgrading our facilities but not the employees," Langdon pointed out. "It's gratifying they chose Haliburton County."

Susan Horn, program developer, announced an extra benefit for tourism industry operators. As well as the training program for employees, the Centre has "lined up some really professional, top-notch people" for a three day operator's seminar.

Horn said members of the American Hotel and Motel Association will be conducting a look at profit during the "training the trainers" weekend. Also, the "high powered" Taylor Reid and Associates will be directing some of the classes.

from the chamber

As always, it's great to be home after 12 days in Toronto with the Sportsmen Show. The Haliburton booth was honoured this year by a visit from "Miss Outdoors" who posed for a picture with us. She also posed with Ritchie Harrison's trophy fish, but they didn't send copies of that shot.

We felt attendance was slightly down this year as a result of the mix-up with March Break in Toronto. It was still judged a success however because those attending, for a large part, were very interested buyers. The real estate firms both in our booth and with their own booths found a renewed interest in purchasing recreational property. Interest in cottages, resorts and camping (in that order) was also very high and the emphasis was on quality and types of facilities being offered rather than economy.

One of our members who participated in the booth on the opening weekend found five messages on his answering machine when he returned home. When the five calls were returned, he found he had five bookings. He phoned us at the show to request participation in additional days.

We understand one fishing tackle booth sold out of their entire inventory on the first weekend and had to go looking for more stock. We had six boys and girls camps working with us this year and had Haliburton Hockey Haven across the aisle. They were all pleased with the high interest they were receiving and we can anticipate expanding on this theme next year.

Our plastic bags were very popular of course, and 7500 of them were given out - all with the promise that the recipient would read the entire list of 71 coming events when they reached home. Speaking of the bags we just received a clipping of an article in the London Free Press Travel Section that expounds on what a great idea the bag program is and suggests their readers should send for one.

One disappointment at the show was the lack of draw ticket sales on the two fine coverlets supplied by the Minden Cultural Centre and the Haliburton Guild. Our record of over $1,200 in sales last year on the quilt provided by the Guild had raised high hopes of similar sales but unfortunately as beautiful as these coverlets are, they don't catch the eye and bring them in out of the aisle like a patchwork quilt will. Let's hope our local residents will support these draws in larger numbers to make up for our failure in this department.

Chamber calls for "Holding the Course"

The Ontario Chamber's prebudget submission to Treasurer Frank Miller called for "no increase in taxes and conversely, no major new measures intended to artificially stimulate the economy." The Chamber feels that 1983 will be a year of "transition from extraordinarily difficult economic times to stable, if unspectacular growth - a year that requires extreme care."

There was a feeling at the Sportsmen Show that the public is starting to regain some confidence and although we have large numbers unemployed, those who still have jobs are beginning to feel comfortable that they will retain them. When the public begins to spend more of their savings tourism is one of the first sectors to feel the positive effects. It should be a good year!

Training Centre opens

Every once in a while an outsider drops in to tell us how well we are doing on the grand scale of things. Last year our Tourism Minister Reuben Baetz said we were consistently used as an example of one of the most active tourism promotional bodies in the province. Last week we heard from a representative of the Hostelry Institute that our Training Centre is being talked about at the international level as an idea worth emulating. Sometimes you can't tell that you're a "leader" because those who are "following" are out of sight. It's great to hear from them and surely this will provide inspiration to those working on the project.

One of the first great benefits that this new centre will provide is the "Train the Trainer" program being offered on April 19, 20 and 21. This program was designed to give the owners or managers of the businesses that will be involved in on-the-job training of students, a common method of dealing with this. The content however, is so high powered and exciting that anyone who deals with employees in the hospitality industry should consider it "a must." This is not one of those seminars you can pass over and say "maybe I'll go to one some other time when I'm not so busy." This opportunity may never occur again. It is being done to assure a good start to the training programs and once completed may not be necessary in the future.

The Taylor-Reid organization comes with very high recommendations and the American Hotel/Motel Association have a seminar format never before offered here.

That's Spin-Off

We received a lot of letters requesting various bits of information, but this one seemed so appropriate in view of some of the current debates about "spin off".

"May I request additional information about the Highlands? I enclose 50¢ for a county map and I would like to mention how helpful the 1982 directory has been.

We were visitors to your area at New Year's time and have decided to purchase land in Haliburton (county) for a permanent home in the near future.

An indication of development opportunities would be helpful.

Task force report

It is worth reviewing the recommendations of the earlier report, and summarizing progress made toward their implementation by the Provincial Government.

1. Provide more training opportunities for those who are currently unemployed, in order to meet skilled manpower demands, particularly in the new technologies, when the economy improves ... no action.

2. Encourage through incentives and/or require through legislation, on-the-job training by Ontario industry, with a view to meeting our own skilled worker needs ... no action.

3. Restructure the apprenticeship programs to permit easier access and reduce the current high dropout rate ... no action.

4. Make a realistic and concerted attempt to change the public's conception of the value and importance of skilled trades, with a view to removing the stigma which is still attached to blue collar work ... no action.

5. Improve upon the present counselling to student ratio of 1:400, and provide in-service opportunities for counsellors to keep abreast of changes in business and industry ... no action.

6. Introduce career counselling at the elementary school level ... some progress.

7. Re-evaluate the present secondary school curriculum and make mandatory such core subjects as English, Mathematics and Science to ensure that young people are equipped to be flexible and adaptable in today's changing labour market ... implemented.

8. In this connection, particularly stress the importance of female students continuing to study Maths and Sciences, enabling them to qualify for the new technologies ... some progress.

9. Introduce into the schools a mandatory credit course on career guidance, job readiness and development of marketable skills ... no skills.

10. Strongly support, and provide effective Ministerial guidelines, as well as mandatory standards, for co-op education and work experience programs in secondary schools, which provide a more realistic bridge from the school to the work environment ... no action.

11. Encourage greater liaison between business, industry and education ... limited progress.

12. Improve manpower forecasting by government and business to assist counsellors and students to make appropriate career decisions ... limited progress, mainly by federal government.

NEED program helps

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

The new Employment Expansion and Development Program (NEED) began operation early this year. It was designed to create short term (up to 52 weeks) employment for those who have exhausted their Unemployment Insurance benefits. Employees are referred to approved project sponsors by their Manpower counsellors. Priority is given, I understand, to those who have been off benefits or on welfare for at least eight weeks.

NEED sponsors may be Federal Government departments and agencies, municipalities, voluntary non-profit organizations, private sector businesses and unions. Projects must be consistent with regional strategies. Proposals must demonstrate that they will create extra employment and will not replace activities undertaken by current employees or volunteers. Proposals from community organizations must not create an ongoing dependency. New NEED projects will be created and approved through the life of the program. This will generate a steady flow of jobs creating new employment opportunities each month.

I have been pleased to be able to announce the approval of a number of projects in Victoria - Haliburton over the past few weeks. I congratulate all those who have submitted applications for projects. I am reminded daily of the invaluable assistance that the availability of even short term jobs is to those currently having little or no income.

The Program is designed to create 60,000 jobs at a cost to the Federal Government of $500 million in the period of January 1983 to March 1984.

Booklets now available

- Ag report -

The publication "Field Crop Recommendations" for 1983 is now available from the County Agricultural Office, and at many local farm supply outlets.

This is one of the annual publications of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, which is looked for each year by farmers. The 1983 "Guide To Chemical Weed Control" has been available for the past week.

The 1983 "Vegetable Production Recommendations" is also available for market gardeners, and the 1983 "Fruit Production Recommendations" should be available this week for fruit growers.

Home gardeners should obtain a copy of the publication called "Insect & Disease Control In The Home Garden."

During the past several years, all members of the Victoria County Soil & Crop Improvement Association were mailed copies of the field crop and weed control books. With the cost of postage now and the larger size of the booklets, the Association decided not to send these to members this year.

New crop check list

With the current depressed prices for several grains, especially corn, a number of farmers are considering growing other crops this year.

If you are wondering about growing a different crop, here are some questions you should ask yourself before finalizing your decision.

1. What does it cost to produce? A crop budget available from the Agricultural Office may help your calculations.
2. Can it qualify for crop insurance? If it doesn't your banker may not be enthusiastic about lending you money to grow it.
3. Does the crop need special equipment or equipment you don't have available?
4. Do you have enough of the right kind of storage for this crop?
5. Does the crop have special drying requirements? For example, the improper drying of sunflower seeds may lead to a visit from the local fire department.
6. Is there a market for the crop? Do you know what price you can expect at market? Is it an established price?
7. When do you get paid? You can't "spend" grain which is in storage.
8. Do you have enough heat units for this crop, or the variety you want to grow?
9. How does this crop fit into your crop rotation?
10. Will you be able to meet the timing requirements of this crop - planting, weed control and harvesting times may be critical, and may compete with other operations for your time.
11. Can you meet the soil and area requirements? Some crops need a special soil to grow properly. Seed crops must have sufficient isolation from the other crops.
12. Is it worth the bother? Only you can answer this question.

Minden W.I.

The March meeting of Minden Women's Institute was held at the Cultural Centre Common Room on the afternoon of the 23rd.

Mrs. W. Moore, first vice president opened the meeting with a verse. The roll call of wearing green was answered by 18 members and one guest. District Director, Mrs. Clare Brown, gave her report of district annual meeting being May 10 at Fenelon Falls United Church Hall with hostesses Bury's Green. We have two new District Life Members, Myrtle Griffin and Lila Palmer. District Craft Day will be Wednesday, October 26 also at Fenelon Falls.

Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 20 cards since last meeting and collections for this fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken. There were readings "A Small Town" by Jeanne Sears and "Just For Today" by Bertha Hughes. The four Tweedsmuir Books were on display but Mrs. J. Hulbig, convenor, was not present.

The meeting adjourned and an auction of the gifts was convened by Irene Moore and we earned $7.50 for the funds. A delicious lunch was served by the committee and a social half hour followed. Next meeting will be at this same location on April 20 at 2 p.m. with all ladies welcome.

Adult Fiction

Title: An Indecent Obsession. Author: Coleen McCullough.

The mental ward of a military hospital on a tropical Indo-Pacific island at the end of World War II is the setting for Colleen McCullough's eagerly awaited new novel. Ward X is a self-contained world for its five remaining patients and their nurse, Honour Langtry. Not only is it physically isolated: the type of illness it harbours sets it apart from the rest of the hospital. For Ward X is the "troppo" ward, its inmates soldiers who have broken under the stresses of jungle warfare.

Honour Langtry cares deeply for the five men now in her charge - the ward leader, Neil Parkinson, blind Matt Sawyer, sickly Nugget Jones, the sadistic and amoral Luce Daggett and the severely withdrawn Benedict Maynard. Each is very different from the others in background, temperament and the nature of his problem, but all are bound together by the routine of their days and - above all - a shared and possessive devotion to their nurse. The last thing she and they anticipate or want at the late date, with the hospital soon to close, is a new admission.

And when Sergeant Michael Wilson presents himself at Ward X he is instantly an unsettling presence, not only because he will upset the delicate balance of the ward but because he is so visibly intact, a man composed and very much in charge of himself. What is Michael Wilson doing here? Why is he a patient?

His papers tell Honour Langtry of a violent crisis from which he ostensibly needs to recover, but it is hard to square this with the man she sees and begins to know - though not to understand. Still after a difficult introduction the other men seem to accept him and Michael proves to be a pleasant and helpful addition. The initial disquiet vanishes. All seems to be well.

Adult Non-Fiction

Ron Luciano was an American League Umpire from 1968 - 1979 and in his book he tells about the brawls, cat calls, dugout jokes and also confesses to missing calls.

Council's assurance fails to satisfy property owner

An Ingoldsby property owner is upset the council will not give him written assurance of his continued access to Lake Kashagawigamog. He has also claimed that a portion of shoreline property in that community will be used as a boat docking facility to serve a number of as yet undeveloped, back lots.

Mr. Thorn and his wife appeared before the council March 24 to register their objections. The couple has also attended the council meeting in late February. At that time they had objected to the closing of a portion of shore allowance on Lake Kashagawigamog which they used to gain access to the lake. The request to close and purchase the property was being made by Mr. Hugh Graham.

The Thorn property is not located on the lake side of the county road while the Graham property is. Graham's application to purchase the shore allowance included extensions on either side of his property, which, if granted, would have closed the Thorn's access to the lake. Generally, when councils permit the purchase of shore allowance, it is the land immediately in front of the privately owned property which can be purchased.

In February, the council agreed with the Thorn's objection and modified Graham's request. However, that has not satisfied Mr. Thorn, who was appearing before council on behalf of his son as well who owns property in the area.

Thorn had requested that the council enact a by-law or include a provision in the sale of land to Graham which would prohibit any new property owner to purchase the abutting shoreline allowance. "We are worried that a new property owner could come back to council and request more shore allowance property," Mrs. Thorn told the meeting. "Why can't you amend the by-law to say the shoreline property (next to that being transferred to Mr.

Graham) won't be sold?"

It was pointed out by several members of the council that while such a by-law could be enacted, it offers little in the way of a guarantee that other councils could amend or rescind the by-law. Reeve Lyle McKnight noted that since the property in question was a thin strip of land between a road owned by the county and the lake, it was highly unlikely the county council would agree to its closing.

These assurances did not satisfy the Thorns. Mr. Thorn commented that the property presently occupied by Graham was the result of a series of errors made in the past. "I don't agree with the 'wongs' that were done," Thorn commented, "but we are willing to overlook it if the council were to ensure the remaining property would remain public."

Thorn said he could envision a new property owner seeking to purchase the shoreline allowance for the installation of a tile bed. When it was noted that the location was too close to the lake, Thorn claimed that in the immediate area a tile bed was installed in the past few years which was within 20 feet of the lake.

During the discussion, Thorn said he felt the Graham property was about to be sold, as soon as the purchase of the shoreline property was approved. He said he understood the property would be used as a "boat livery" for property owners on a backlot development.

It was suggested Thorn make application to purchase the shoreline property in question. While it was highly unlikely the purchase would be approved, the interest of the Thorn's in the property would be registered with the municipality in an official manner. Mr. Thorn said he would make application, but he also indicated he might take other steps to protect his interest in the lakeshore lands in front of his property.

Notification

As a result of the objections raised by the Thorns to the sale of the shoreline property, the municipal council has enacted a policy which would require the township to notify property owners, within 400 feet of the proposed closing, of the action being considered. A similar notification procedure applied when a zoning change application is being processed.

Pair injured in single car accident

A single car accident on the Deep Bay Road April 2 has resulted in $2000 damage to a Toronto area man's car. Donald Levesque, 28, was attempting to negotiate a curve in the road when he lost control of his 1981 Datsun pick-up truck. The vehicle flipped onto its roof and slid off the roadway into the ditch.

The driver and his passenger, Keith MacDonald, also 28, were treated for minor injuries and released.

The accident was investigated by Constable Bill Clendenning.

Break-ins

Police report a quiet Easter weekend, except for the fact a number of property owners, returning to their cottages for the first time this season, discovered that the premises had been entered. Police are continuing their investigation into these incidents. The authorities also report there were quite a number of liquor offences during the week.

County receives grant

A community planning study grant of $48,235 has been awarded to the County of Victoria, Claude Bennett, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing, announced recently.

The grant will be used by the county to update its official plan.

Community planning study grants are designed to encourage municipalities to review and update their planning programs, zoning bylaws and other planning documents.

They may also be used for special studies on local issues such as lakeshore development or commercial development along highways, and for energy-conserving planning measures.

The number 13 appeared to be particularly lucky for the Minden Pee Wee team as they competed in a number of exhibition contests during the past week. In the first contest, Minden defeated Haliburton 13-1. The game was played Monday in Minden.

The other 13 goal win came during a tournament on the weekend in Baysville. The Minden Pee Wees faced Gravenhurst in the first contest and left the opposition in the dust with a 13-0 shutout.

The point getters for Minden included: Sheldon Perry with three goals and an assist; Scott Russell with three goals and three assists; Trini Elias with two goals; Kent

Taylor a pair of goals; Sheldon Stevenson one goal and two assists; Derek Allison one goal and one assist; Corey Ackley one goal and one assist; Tom Heppleston two assists; Aaron Hie and Dave Shaw an assist each.

The shut-out went to the credit of Jim Riordon.

Minden's second game in the tournament saw the team defeated by Haliburton. The final score was 3-1. Kent Taylor picked up the only tally for Minden in that contest. The players were a bit tired for this match and they put forward a concerted effort, it was not enough to overcome the Haliburton offensive.

Bob Austin accepts the Wrightman Realty plaque from Dwight Thomas, right, after his rink placed second in the Straw and Stone Bonspiel held recently at the Minden rink. Members of the winning foursome include Doug Coburn, Alec and Sharon Kernohan.

by Ron Reid - Federation of Ontario Naturalists

For seasoned bird-watchers there are a few birds that seem to just fade into the background, because they are almost always present. For birders in the Great Lakes region, the common "seagulls" fit into that category, for their raucous cries and gliding flight seem to form a constant backdrop in the search for more elusive birds.

Actually, there are two common seagulls in Ontario. The larger herring gull is usually solitary, and is easily recognized by its heavy yellow bill and flesh-coloured legs. The similar ring-billed gull, as the name suggests, has a black band near the end of its bill, and yellowish legs. Over the past decade, these ring-bills have had an explosive population increase, creating a nuisance along lakeshore parks and at airports. Now there are an estimated 350,000 pairs of ring-bills along the Ontario side of the Great Lakes. At the newly created Leslie Street spit off Toronto, a colony of 20 pairs that first nested in 1973 has grown to 80,000 pairs in 1982.

The over-abundance of ring-billed gulls is a surprising phenomenon, especially since the herring gulls have stayed at stable levels. The reasons seem to lie in the adaptability of ring-bills. They fly south to avoid our winters, are quite flexible about where they nest, and have a diet that includes almost anything. While herring gulls stick to the traditional diet of fish, ring-bills have learned to follow the plough in agricultural areas for earthworms and insects, and to scrounge city parking lots for french fries and other delicacies. In a throw-away society such as ours, nature's garbagemen can do very well indeed.

Wildlife experts have been looking for ways to control the numbers of gulls, but nothing looks promising. Killing adult gulls by poisoning or shooting is both distasteful and ineffective. Spraying eggs in the nest with kerosene to reduce the number of chicks won't work either, since gulls rapidly reinvade from other colonies. In some areas, stretching thin wires overhead can prevent access by gulls, but obviously this is a technique of limited potential.

Skaters compete in Sarnia

Four skaters from the Minden club travelled to Sarnia March 18 and 19 to compete in the Western Ontario Section Winter Invitational Competition (W.O.S.W.I.C.)

Lisa Carr placed 4th; Sara Lee Henderson 6th; Jenni Gentle, 8th; and Janna Obee, 9th in their events.

The girls all performed very well, especially considering it was their first big competition (over 800 skaters in 32 categories).

The Minden Figure Skating Club is very fortunate to have as our Senior Coach, Jane Symons. In the two years Jane has taught here she has certainly expanded the knowledge and experiences of all the skaters and parents in the club. Skaters are now travelling to Lindsay for skating schools year round and are becoming more aware of events in other areas.

Lindsay wins Coboconk tourney

Midtown Sports of Lindsay claimed the 'A' title and swept all of the individual player trophies during the Robert Davies Memorial Hockey Tournament played this weekend at the Minden arena, and sponsored by the Robert Davies Memorial Hockey Tournament. Midtown Sports defeated the New Royal Jets of Omemee in the final game 5 - 1 to take the championship.

The 'B' championship was won by the Burnt River Bullies in an exciting game which saw the team defeat Bobcaygeon 3 - 2. The Burnt River squad claimed the Viceroy trophy for their win in the 'B' division.

In the 'C' round, Richmond Hill edged out the Lindsay Bullshooters 4 - 3. The Bullshooters made a concerted effort in the final minutes of the game closing a 4 - 2 gap by one goal. They were unable, however, to notch the tying marker.

One of the most exciting games of the tournament was the final in the 'D' division which saw Norland and the Coboconk Merchants square off. When the final buzzer sounded, the teams were tied at two goals apiece. A shoot-out was required to determine the winner with Norland eventually notching the goal to claim the division championship.

The tournament attracted 24 teams with play starting Friday and continuing through to Sunday evening.

U.C.W. annual meeting held in Bobcaygeon

- submitted -

The 21st annual meeting of Lindsay Presbyterian U.C.W. attended by 200 members and several visitors was held at Trinity United Church, Bobcaygeon on March 24. The theme of this year's meeting was "Roots and Routes".

Thea Brandsma, President, opened the morning session by welcoming everyone and reading scripture from Ephesians 3:17-20. The theme song "Roots and Wings" was sung and the U.C.W. purpose repeated in unison.

Nancy Hill, Bobcaygeon U.C.W. President, extended a gracious welcome on behalf of Bobcaygeon.

Region 6 was in charge of the worship service. "Come let us sing of a wonderful love" was sung. Glenna Beckham of Haliburton and Marian Barclay of Wilberforce read scripture. June Devolin of Haliburton led in a meditation on "Love". In her remarks she said that "we needed to be rooted and grounded in love. Seed that falls on shallow soil has no root and withers. Seed in good soil produces 'roots'. It is only as we know Jesus in a personal way that we can be firmly rooted. The definition of 'route' is 'the way', and Jesus is the way, the truth and the life." In conclusion she said "let's be sure that they'll know we are Christians by our love characterizes our actions." Evelyn Coleman of Carnarvon closed with prayer. Offering was received and dedicated by Region 3.

Rev. E. McCrea, Chairman of Lindsay Presbytery, was present and brought greetings.

Orlee Wells presented the treasurer's report and the budget for 1983. A motion to continue the Lindsay Fair booth for 1983 carried.

Cannington U.C.W. invited the members to meet at Cannington for the 1984 annual meeting.

Margaret Gilson, President of Bay of Quinte Conference U.C.W. brought greetings and reminded everyone that the conference annual meeting of U.C.W. will be held at Cobourg on April 5-6. Marjorie Levan of Alcohol and Drug Concerns, Eastern Division, spoke of her concern and feelings on drug problems. She told what her division is doing in regard to same. She also stated that a workshop on "Stress, and coping with stress in a chemical age," was being held at St. James United Church in Peterborough on May 3. Further information can be obtained from the A.D.A. task force convened by Neta McArthur.

Nora Bagshaw gave information on books available for sale at the lunch hour.

Following luncheon served by Bobcaygeon U.C.W. the afternoon session opened with a hymn sing led by Orlee Wells, with Kay Russell at the piano.

The 'Great Parade' followed. This was a parade by U.C.W. members. The first group in costume portrayed Bible women. The second group portrayed famous women of the past by carrying signs with the name of the woman they represented, and the third group portrayed women who have made outstanding contribution to the work of the church and community in their particular area. Each woman and her work was commented on as she marched around the church.

An impressive "In memoriam" service was conducted by Region 5 led by Marian Wellman of Omeme. Around the thought that Jesus said "whosoever followed Him would have light and not live in darkness," seven candles were lit. The central candle representing Christ was lit by Margaret Gilson, Conference U.C.W. President, followed by the six regional chairpersons or their representative each lighting one and stating the purpose they were being lit for.

Jeanette McKagus introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Shirley Davy, Co-ordinator of "Women, Work and Worship" project. Mrs. Davy stated that as she travelled about the country gathering information for her project she got a glimpse of woman's spirit by what she saw portrayed by women in the United Church. She stated that "women have been left out as far as church history has been concerned, and that they have been given a little bit of power in the church, but not essential power." She felt a modifying influence is needed in theology, which she feels women should fill. She said, "women must not be afraid to change things. They can shape the church that is to be, and that there will be serious consequences for the church if women don't make themselves heard."

Mildren Goard thanked Mrs. Davy for the interesting information she has gathered, and presented her with a token of appreciation.

The report of the nominating committee was given by Leola English. Margaret Gilson conducted the election and installation of officers.

An added feature to this year's meeting was reflections on the day's activities given by

Rev. Ed. Bentley. Rev. Bentley stated that it should be remembered that our mandate taken from Luke 4 was - "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me because He has chosen me to bring good news to the poor (hope), to proclaim liberty to the captive (liberation), to bring recovery of sight to the blind (healing), to set free the oppressed (justice), to announce that the time has come when the Lord will save His people (salvation). These five things are our Christian 'roots' as well as our 'routes'."

Courtesies by Leola English, followed by singing the hymn, "Called to Become" and benediction by Rev. Bentley closed a very successful meeting.

Dutch Diary

Ingoldsby high school student Gregg Feltham is spending a year in Holland as part of the Rotary International student exchange program. His participation in this program is sponsored by the Minden Rotary Club. Gregg has agreed to share some of his impressions of his stay overseas with our readers through special reports he prepares. The following update was written in mid-March.

From my seven months in Holland, I would have to say that the most prominent feature or effect upon Dutch society is the size of the country. The Netherlands is one of the most densely populated countries in the world, with more than 14 million people living in a country which would fit nicely between Haliburton and Toronto.

Every square metre of land in the country is owned and has a certain function. This has underlying effects upon all facets of Dutch society. Because cities and towns are generally only five to ten kilometres apart, distances are perceived differently. If you travel for twenty minutes in the auto, you find yourself in another province with a totally different dialect.

There are literally dozens of cities and villages within any 25 km radius. They are fully connected with a network of bus and train routes, providing one of the best systems of public transportation anywhere. Prices are kept relatively low, through high government subsidies, thus many families choose not to have a car. Everything is accessible by bicycle so cars are not necessary. In addition, the costs of taking driving lessons and applying for a licence easily adds up to more than $1000. Driving lessons are permitted only under qualified instructors (i.e. parents may not give lessons to their own kids). This is quite understandable, because driving here is much more involved, with smaller streets and weaving cyclists to contend with.

You hear quite often on the radio a warning for a "spook rijder" (ghost driver) on a freeway. This is a motorist who drives unthinkingly down the "oncoming" section of a four-lane highway. All traffic is told to keep to the right-hand lane and try to alert the motorist with flashing headlights.

The Dutch government began years ago to take measures to regulate and control the population growth and spread. Towns and cities are well-planned and sub-divided into residential areas with tiny areas of man-made parkland in between. It can be said that in this way, Holland is far more modern than our traditional view of older European lands.

Still though, they have managed to preserve the lifestyle and customs from earlier times. For example, groceries are still purchased individually at the baker, the fruit store, and the butcher (carried on the back of a bicycle). Motor homes, fully stocked as grocery stores, ride daily through the streets providing easily accessible sales in residential areas.

Every Friday, one of the streets in Castricum, Burgermeestermooistraat, is used as a market street, for pedestrians only. Everything is sold there, from flowers to eels to wool and cloth. The market then packs up and moves to another town in the region for the following day. There is some doubt as to whether the small market can survive, but the shoppers enjoy it because it provides the chance to meet and talk with regular market visitors.

The influence of land size can sometimes cause social problems though, with the strains of conflicting ideas imposing upon each other. There are often tensions in cities such as Rotterdam and Amsterdam, resulting from "squatters" moving into unused buildings. This problem is generally restricted to the cities, however.

In general though, the Dutch deserve a lot of credit for bringing themselves to the point they are today. From the devastation of the war forty years ago, they have built themselves up into one of the world's most stable economies. Their multinational companies such as Shell and Phillips, as well as "Europort", the world shipping distribution centre, have a great influence on world trade.

In order to keep stability and a high standard of living, society has to be regulated under certain rules of the liberal-socialist government. For example, bread and milk prices are fixed to enable the farming community, as the 'backbone of the country', to compete equally with other sectors of the economy.

On the other hand though, many things require governmental permission (such as painting the exterior of your house, cutting down a tree on your own land, lighting a campfire). Even the honking of car horns is allowed only in cases of emergency. All of this is of course intended for the benefit of society as a whole.

For the future, Holland is looking at its natural gas reserves as well as the security of the mammoth Delta Works Project. They are also considering draining and reclaiming about one third of the remaining IJsselmeer, in spite of the backlash from conservationists.

Christmas in Holland

The winter season here is totally different than in Canada. Dutch Christmas is celebrated on December 5 when Sinterklaas, a religious saint, comes from Spain on a horse. His Negro helper, Zwarte Piet (Black Peter), who is dressed in a suit resembling that of an ancient court jester, follows him throwing candies to all the people. Different children, dressed as Zwarte Piet, walk, bike or roller skate along the houses, throwing handfuls of treats inside. On December 5, you wake up to gifts or candies in your wooden shoe (i.e. a big chocolate letter, representing your initial). Then the families spend several hours together opening presents and reading aloud the poems which come with each gift. Many gifts are presented in the form of surprises, such as: hidden inside a loaf of bread, a coconut, or inside fully-sealed layers of paper and glue.

Still, the emphasis in the last few years has been slowly shifting towards December 25. Many though would rather keep the commercialism out of Christmas, while bringing the traditional Christmas more up to a modern tempo with present-day themes and messages.

New Years again is quite different and varies of course between families. Because family life is so very important, most families spend the evening together at home. On the television are various stand-up comics and other performers who do the annual "roasting" of politics and other national issues. There is no "countdown" on television for everyone is standing outside in the street next to his house. At 12 p.m., the sky breaks loose with literally thousands of fireworks. Each family has their own display. More than 16 million dollars worth was purchased privately this year in Holland. There are no safety regulations, as people of all ages join in, setting off the spectacular fireworks (not just crackers) by hand or from one metre away. Every moving thing is game for kids who toss "Roman Candles" under cars or try and blow up a passing victim on a bicycle. By 1 a.m., the kids have formed into little groups who have street battles with rockets from distances of 50 to 100 m.

Since January, things have been going great for me. The weather has been beautiful (although we have had only 2 cm of snow total this winter). In addition to a ten day trip to Belgium, I've also been touring around the Netherlands. In fact, I've seen more places than many Dutch people. Last night, I went to a professional soccer game in Alkmaar.

Tomorrow, I'll be going for 2 days to Drenthe (northeast part of the country) and I'll be spending the coming weekend with the other exchange students in Zeeland (extreme southwest).

After six months in Holland, perspectives slowly change into "two-dimensions" because of the never-ending flatness. Seeing the hilly terrain of Belgium a month ago, gave me one of the strangest feelings. It was as if the world had been built on a slant, with towns and houses rising about you in all directions! Oh well, this will soon change again, because at the end of March, I'll be going for two weeks of skiing in the Swiss Alps. I hope to spend a couple of weeks in England after that.

Here in Noord-Holland, the flowers are beginning to bloom. I happen to be luckily living in a part of the Netherlands famous for its tulip fields. I've seen photos of it, but the real thing is really something else.

My year here is going so quickly. Before I know it, I'll be back once again in the Haliburton Highlands.

Groetjes en tot ziens,

Gregg Feltham

We had no music for the service Sunday night, so this we had to scrap. Mrs. Thompson's sister fell and somehow broke her hip. Mrs. Burgess is not too well, for which we all are sorry. The Reverend himself says he is weak in his top story, and having trouble with his hands, but he delivered the Easter message that we could understand.

We have Linda back again to bring a little cheer. We surely miss her when she isn't here. Monday morning Jack Stewart took me to Fun & Fitness in a wheelchair. Practised the piano and harmonica while we were there. Monday afternoon ladies in the craft room some making quilt blocks, some knitting afghans, some making socks - everyone is busy doing their job. They never shirk and they get through a lot of fancy work. Linda stayed and showed us some real interesting movies Monday night down in the auditorium. It would be more encouraging if more residents came down to see them.

Lieutenant Buell of the Salvation Army, Haliburton came down to Hyland Crest

this twenty-ninth March day. Held a nice Easter service in the chapel. Our faithfuls came to sing and play. Mrs. Sibley came too, bless her heart, always more than willing to do her part. With a word of greeting as she passes by, leaving a copy in each room of the War Cry.

Bingo here Tuesday afternoon and you know it sounds funny but I didn't hear of anyone making much money.

We were well entertained here on Tuesday night, the musicians that put it on did the job just right. First came the guitarist that we didn't know, then came Doris, son Ian with his fiddle and bow, then came Doris some time in between, they played the greatest music you have seldom seen. When the orchestra played a lively tune the girls Dad got up and step danced round the room. Then when the music hit the real fast tempo, Doris and her Dad got up and danced to heel and toe.

We welcome here a new resident Mrs. Margaret Sisson, we hope she will be getting better acquainted with each passing day.

Wednesday night is games night here at Hyland Crest. We didn't win although we tried our best.

The ladies from Allsaw Church brought in the lunch this last March day, served it up so nicely, had a good display, sandwiches, cookies, crackers and cheese. Also a lovely birthday cake for those who had birthdays in March to partake.

The Bingo was conducted

Thursday night by members of the Kinsman Club, Rick Hamilton and friend we thank you for coming, I didn't attend.

Our entertainers came this nice April day, Grace Coburn to lead the singing and Fred Ballard to play. Grace read two poems, The Boy that was so Rushed, and The Fish that Got Away.

Edith Welch has gone to visit her son in Frankford over the Easter Holiday. We miss Edith when she is away. A number of residents had relatives and friends coming to visit them this Easter holiday time. I won't mention any names, I might miss somebody and that would be a crime.

The return of spring for lo the winter is past the rain is over and gone the flowers appear on the earth the time of the singing of birds has come and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land.

Guests over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. M. Sears included Carol and Reg, Philip and Karen all of Keswick and Louise, Glen, Bernice, Allen and Connie Sears of Oshawa.

On Saturday, Bess and Fred Cox were happy to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nettinga of Lindsay and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robertson of Norland. Bess and Fred also enjoyed a lovely Easter dinner Sunday at Fred's parents.

Mrs. Vivien Kernohan has returned from a delightful holiday in the Barbados. She was accompanied by her daughter-in-law Barb Kernohan, her grandson Larry Kernohan and his girlfriend Carrie Allen, all of Whitby.

Saturday evening, CFMX presented Puccini's Turandot in its entirety which was an absolutely thrilling experience. I still get chills up and down my spine when listening to the aria Nessun Dorma. The first time I heard this fantastic aria was when we were in Tanglewood and my husband brought home the record of the great Jussi Bjorling singing it and I was hooked. If a tenor can rise to its magnificence he is indeed great.

Last Saturday, Lilla Zeller celebrated her birthday with a group of young friends at her home. It was a lovely party, and judging by the enthusiasm of her guests, it was a great success. Lilla is a beautiful youngster and a special friend of mine as are her brother Andrew and her sister Stephanie.

I do hope you all enjoyed the telecast of the Thorn Birds as much as I did. I have now read the book three times. The cast was superb and Richard Chamberlain, one of the truly great actors of his time. We see him infrequently but anything he appears in is certain to be superior. If he and Rachel Ward do not get an award for their efforts there has to be something wrong with the committee.

A very happy birthday and best wishes to Mary Cowan who celebrated her birthday last week.

Fifty-six people turned out for the Red Cross annual meeting at the Fireside Restaurant on Wednesday, March 30. Everyone agreed that the food was delicious and a fine time was enjoyed by all.

Wednesday evening we had a delicious Potluck Supper at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery for the members of our organization. It was a lot of fun and everyone enjoyed themselves. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 6 at 7 p.m.

On Tuesday evening I had a very nice gathering in my home for Single Parents. This is a very pleasant and congenial group and our next meeting will be held in the Municipal Building on Tuesday at 8 p.m. We hope many will attend.

The following is a letter to me from a young friend who I am sure will not mind my sharing it with you. I too am appalled by the lack of sensitivity of the CFMX management in their dismissal of Irwin Karnick. As you know I recently moved here from the highly arts populated Toronto area. While living there I was involved in writing and theatre and I became very accustomed to the availability of fine arts entertainment. Although my interest in classical music began only a few years ago, I have become very fond of it. In fact only my love of poetry and theatre surpass it. Imagine my surprise when I tuned into CFMX and found what I had been missing for almost a year. Imagine my joy when I heard Irwin Karnick's "Measure for Measure" program. Not only did he play the finest of music but he combined poetry and philosophy with it. Two of my loves satisfied as one. For months I eagerly tuned into Karnick's program gaining a much needed culture fix. Then, as we know CFMX in their infinite wisdom (or lack of it) canceled the show and fired Irwin. I was devastated by this tragic turn of events and I felt betrayed. Now even with my love of classical music, I find it difficult to listen to CFMX. I can no longer hear the beauty that it once expressed, only the emptiness it now holds. Please add my voice to the cry of "injustice" and add my support in asking for Irwin Karnick's reinstatement. I sincerely hope that CFMX realizes the damage they have inflicted upon themselves and move quickly to get Karnick's "Measure for Measure" back on the air. — My grateful thanks to my young friend who certainly appreciates the finer things of life.

Velvet
Velvet makes me think of things
Soft as down
Hummingbird's wings
Little girls with flowing tresses
The memory of youth's caresses.
A new-born chick so frail and weak
The cuddly feel of baby's cheek,
The knowing owl with stare so wise,
The loving looks in sweet-heart's eyes,
The misty grey of early dawn,
The spotted coating of a fawn.
Soft winds wafting from above
Over all, the wings of love.

Yvonne

I am sorry to report that my father is presently confined to Haliburton Hospital. Hopefully it won't be long until he's on the mend and home once more.

At this time I would like to wish my good friend, Marlene Pilcher a very happy birthday. Marlene celebrates her birthday on Wednesday, April 6. All the best and many many happy returns of the day Marlene.

St. Paul's church was filled to capacity for its lovely Easter service.

A great vote of thanks to all the ladies of St. Paul's who worked so hard to create over 1000 delectable Easter eggs for the many candy lovers in the area.

I am very sorry to report the deaths of Mr. Keith Cameron of Wilberforce, Mr. Mervin Loucks from Cambridge, Mrs. Della Griffin from Minden, Margaret Mahon formerly of Wilberforce but now of St. Catharines, and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Monk who was killed in a car accident. Our deepest sympathy to all their families in their loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Harrison of Maple Lake are happy to announce the marriage of her son and his step-son Doug Walker who was united in marriage to Ms. Georgina Thorne, in Toronto on Thursday of last week. His sister, Mrs. Ruth Green was matron of honour and his brother Terry was best man. The happy couple spent their honeymoon at Sunnyside Chalet. We wish them all the best.

Guests of Elmer and Velma Harrison of Maple Lake over the Easter holiday were his sister and brother-in-law John and Lisa Kuchelema of Toronto, his daughter and son-in-law Keith and Sharon McIntosh of Oshawa, his uncle Aubrey Harrison of Peterborough, his niece and her husband, Debby and Danny McKelvey and her son Shane of Minden, also son Butch of Oshawa and Doug and Georgie Walker of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harrison of Maple Lake, held an Easter dinner for their friends Mr. and Mrs. Al Barnes and family. Al will soon be moving to Sioux Lookout where he will be taking a position as a member of the police commission. We certainly wish them all the best.

Mr. Terry Walker, son and stepson of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Harrison is flying to Malta on Tuesday where he intends to go into the tourism business. He leaves from Toronto International Airport non-stop to Greece, and from there to Malta. There is quite a demand for Country and Western music in Malta and he has quite a number of his own compositions and sings very well. He is hoping to start a band there also. Lots of luck from us all Terry.

Mrs. Eric Thompson of Maple Lake presented her cousin, Debby McKelvey with a baby shower last Saturday. There were quite a number of ladies attending. Among the guests were her great aunt, Inga Harrison of Peterborough and her mother Leitha of Toronto.

Bradley Robinson was home visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Philip Robinson for the Easter weekend and while there spent Sunday with his sister and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw, celebrating Easter and Florence's birthday. Many, many happy returns Florence.

There will be free movies shown in the Common Room of the Minden Cultural Centre this coming Friday. Movies for adults will be shown from 2 to 3 p.m., and for children from 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. All are welcome.

Reminder. The St. Paul's Mini-Card party will resume this week.

In spite of the inclement weather, I hope you all enjoyed a blessed Easter.

Captain Douglas Robertson and sons Corey and Christopher from Edmonton visited with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Mel Robertson over Easter. Mel Robertson has just been elected Zone Commander F4 Royal Canadian Legion. All our congratulations to him.

Hi kids. Here is another word search. This one is all about birds. To solve the puzzle, look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Some have hidden words or sayings, some do not. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list. It's as easy as that. Have fun.
